Holy Father's Prayer Intention
(May—2020)

What is Pentecost Sunday

Pentecost Sunday is a commemoration and celebration of the receiving of the Holy Spirit by the early Church. John the Baptist prophesied of the first Pentecost when Jesus would baptize with the Holy Spirit and with fire (Matthew 3:11). Jesus confirmed this prophecy with the promise of the Holy Spirit to the disciples in John 14:26. He showed Himself to these men and women after His death on the cross and His resurrection, giving convincing proofs that He was alive. Jesus told the disciples to wait in Jerusalem for the Father’s gift of the Holy Spirit, from whom they would receive power to be His witnesses to the ends of the earth (Acts 1:3-8). After Jesus’ ascension to heaven, the men and women returned to Jerusalem and joined together in prayer in the upper room. On the Day of Pentecost, just as promised, the sound of a violent wind filled the house and tongues of fire came to rest on each of them and all were filled with the Holy Spirit. They were given the power of communication, which Peter used to begin the ministry for which Jesus had prepared him. After the coming of the Holy Spirit, the disciples did not stay in the room basking in God’s glory but burst out to tell the world. This was the beginning of the Church as we know it.

PRAYER DURING A PANDEMIC

May we who are merely inconvenienced remember those whose lives are at stake. May we who have no risk factors remember those most vulnerable. May we who have the luxury of working from home remember those who must choose between preserving their health or making their rent. May we who have the flexibility to care for our children when their schools close remember those who have no options. May we who have to cancel our trips remember those that have no place to go. May we who are losing our margin money in the tumult of the economic market remember those who have no margin at all. May we who settle in for a quarantine at home remember those who have no home. During this time when we cannot physically wrap our arms around each other, let us yet find ways to be the loving embrace of God to our neighbors. Amen

AN ACT OF SPIRITUAL COMMUNION

My Lord Jesus Christ, I firmly believe that You are present in the Most Blessed Sacrament as true God and true Man: Body and Blood, Soul and Divinity. I love You above all things and I desire You with all my heart. Since I cannot now receive You Sacramentally, I ask You to come spiritually into my heart. I embrace You as if You were already in my heart and unite myself to You completely. Never let me fall away from Your Holy Presence. Amen.

Stressful Parenting During COVID-19: (YOU ARE NOT ALONE)

You are not Alone. Now that we are several weeks into the global health pandemic, one might think that parents and children have figured out their new routines and are essentially functioning together well by this point. This may be true for some families, but a tremendous amount of parents are sharing their stories of trying times that involve feeling overwhelmed, angry, anxious, stressed, and guilty. If this is how you're feeling, you are not alone. Many parents are trying to manage their "day job" of working remotely from home, while still completing chores and getting food on the table. If this weren't already enough, parents are also taking the role of homeschool teacher and must help their children get on Zoom or Google Classroom to meet with their class and complete assignments throughout each day.

Other factors could be present, leaving home for an essential job while the kids are home from school, functioning in a one-parent household, losing a job, or coping with a loved one becoming sick. Emotions are running high for parents and children alike. Throughout the now combined school and work day, there is breaking up arguments between siblings and trying to manage meals and snack time. Children may be showing more intense behavior struggles due to their heightened emotions as well, which results in both kids and parents having a melt down. Parents struggle to help their children with assignments, and even getting kids to focus long enough to complete their tasks can feel difficult enough. When will this end? It can be daunting to think of the weeks ahead. For all these reasons and more, we all may need to let go of the shame and guilt for "not parenting well enough" and talk about how to get through this. It may seem that we're the only ones who don't have it together by now which can feel lonely and shameful. Let's normalize these emotions and know that we are not the only ones going through this. Here is a list of (realistic) tips created with the insight of (realistic) parents that can help provide some relief from these overwhelming feelings: ---

Take a pause from social media: It can be easy to compare ourselves to others, especially when we have more time at home to peruse the Internet. On Facebook and Instagram, it can look like other parents have completely managed the chaos in their homes and are spending their time doing engaging and fun activities. It's true, they could be great suggestions-but it's important to keep in mind that these ideas may not be perfectly executed. Social media is often our "highlight reel" rather than a place we share our struggles. We don't know what someone else is going through. If social media is becoming too overwhelming or negative for us, it's important to take a break until we are in a better headspace.

Connect with others: Make time throughout the week to check in with friends and family members. Be honest with them and share what you're going through. They will likely be able to empathize with you and assure you that things haven't been the easiest for them either.

Consider a general routine: No need for anything detailed or elaborate. Take a minute to think of the flow of schedule you would like the weekdays to have. Involve your children in creating the plan so they can experience involvement and have buy-in to your plan. Make the routine straightforward and easy to understand. Post your schedule in the home so everyone has access and can see what to expect.

It is always easy to place blame on ourselves and dwell on our shortcomings as parents. It is important to remember that we are trying our best. It's true that the global health pandemic is frightening and worrisome. It would be impossible to function as well as we normally do. Allow the space to experience these real emotions without judgment and remember that everyone is going through this in one way or another.

Lean on others-we will get through this together. Just remember, You Are Not Alone.

A PRAYER FOR HEALTH CARE WORKERS

During this Time of the Coronavirus COVID-19

Loving God, we place into your care all our doctors, nurses and healthcare workers.

Give them courage of heart and strength of mind and body. Guard and defend them against every harm.

May they know our deep gratitude for all they are doing to heal and help those affected by this virus.

God of all consolation lift up and care for these men and women risking and sometimes sacrificing their very lives for the good of others.

May they know your protection and peace. Bless them in these challenging days and bless their families.

Amen

FAITH FORMATION

Dear Families,

I hope you are as well as you can be during this time of change and uncertainty. Our Lord tells us "Do not be afraid I am with you always".

Yes, during this time he walks with us as he walked with the two disciples on the way to Emmaus. They recognized him in the breaking of the Bread, then talked about their experience of encounter with the Lord.

As parents and family we are called to share our experience of encountering the risen Lord to our children. Just as they share their experience of encounter with the risen Lord with you.

Let us call this time a period of encounter with God and one another. Perhaps, a blessing to share on such a deep level.

The Diocese has provided us with many resources to help families with Faith Formation. I have included two videos hosted by Deacon Matt Halbach from Sadlier publication.

The other link is a good guide on how to watch and engage the family viewing live streaming Mass. At St Clare Masses are lived streamed at 9:30 am daily. Sunday 10:30 am stclare-queens.org

I miss you and would love to hear from you. Please confirm you have received this e mail. Peace, love and joy. Ms. Lorena

Holy Virgin of Guadalupe

Queen of the Angels and Mother of the Americas. We fly to you today as your beloved children. We ask you to intercede for us with Your Son, as you did at the wedding in Cana.

Pray for us, loving Mother, and gain for our nation and world, and for all our families and loved ones, the protection of your holy angels, that we may be spared the worst of this illness.

For those already afflicted, we ask you to obtain the grace of healing and deliverance. Hear the cries of those who are vulnerable and fearful, wipe away their tears and help them to trust.

In this time of trial and testing, teach all of us in the Church to love one another and to be patient and kind. Help us to bring the peace of Jesus to our land and to our hearts.

We come to you with confidence, knowing that you truly are our compassionate mother, health of the sick and cause of our joy.

Shelter us under the mantle of your protection, keep us in the embrace of your arms, help us always to know the love of Your Son, Jesus. Amen.
